TOPOWA PROJECT

Mental Health project to determine social drivers and mental health among young women who live in the slums of Kampala A 5-year study to determine the link between social drivers and mental health among young women who live in the slums of Kampala in Uganda. Kennesaw State University (KSU) received the five-year $3.3 million award from the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and has partnered with Ministry of Health and UYDEL to conduct this interdisciplinary project. Mental illnesses are understudied, and scarce services lack evaluations, particularly in low-resource settings such as slums. In response to the vulnerable state of adolescent girls and young women in the urban slums, the team of researchers are implementing this five-year project named "TOPOWA" (The Onward Project n Well-being and Adversity), which means to "keep pushing forward and never giving up", in the Luganda language.

This year 2023 was very exciting for our TOPOWA project. It was the busiest of this 5 year project. As we are completing our second year of this NIH-funded project.

In the year 2023, we moved into our new facility in Bugolobi, also expanded the Uganda project team, received IRB approvals for our pilot studies, finished 2 pilot studies, received IRB approvals for our cohort study, set up our neuroscience and biomarker laboratories, finalized the data collection process, trained the entire project team, recruited the participants for our cohort study, completed the baseline assessment with 300 women in the cohort study (T1) and completed about half of the first follow-up assessments (T2) in time for the holiday break. We are particularly proud of the research dissemination at the Global Alcohol Policy Conference (Cape Town, SA, Oct 24-26), the International Conference on Urban Health (Atlanta, USA, Nov. 6-9) and the American Public Health Association (Atlanta, USA, Nov 12-15).

Economic empowerment project in Kampala and Wakiso Districts, Uganda (Access to youth Employment Project)

The Urban Slum Youth Economic Empowerment Project in Kampala and Wakiso Districts, Uganda, aimed to support marginalized youth, including school dropouts, victims of violence and exploitation, and those engaged in drug abuse, by providing mentorship, psychosocial support, vocational livelihood skills training, and work placement opportunities. Implemented through partnerships with various stakeholders, the project targeted the empowerment of 867 youth aged 14-24, equipping them with hard and soft skills for gainful employment or self-employment, ultimately improving their livelihoods. Using the Social Ecological Model, the project sought to create an enabling environment across multiple levels—household, community, organizational, and policy—to foster positive change. The project successfully provided vocational skills training, including domestic electrical installation, hairdressing, tailoring, and computer skills, among others, with a total of 308 beneficiaries enrolled in long-term skills training and 124 in short-term skills training.

Sexual Reproductive Health Services and Economic/livelihood Opportunities

Uganda Youth Development Link (UYDEL) is implementing the Enhancing access to Age-Appropriate Sexual Reproductive Health Services and Economic/livelihood Opportunities for young people below 25 years' project (Continuation phase) with the goal of achieving reduced vulnerability to economic deprivation and enhancing access to SRH Services among 3,000 adolescents and youths in Kampala by 2025.

Key achievements

The EASY U25 project successfully identified and assessed 142 vulnerable slum youth, with a significant proportion being females, in Kampala's Nakawa, Makindye, and Rubaga Divisions. Through collaborative efforts with local leaders, social workers, and volunteers, these youth were enrolled in vocational training programs at UYDEL centers, specializing in various skills such as hairdressing and electronics repair. Noteworthy outcomes include the initiation of mobile hairdressing services by 46 participants, leading to an average daily income of EUR 2.4, and the daily earnings of EUR 2.4 by 7 beneficiaries in electronics repair, showcasing the tangible impact of acquired skills on their livelihoods.

- Psychosocial support services were provided to 134 slum youth, resulting in restored hope and improved confidence among beneficiaries, particularly in Makindye and Nakawa Divisions.
- The project also ensured the functionality and maintenance of UYDEL centers, creating conducive learning environments for vocational training and rehabilitation activities.
- Additionally, efforts were made to support teenage mothers with essential social, emotional, medical, and academic support, positively impacting their well-being and enhancing their self-worth.

Moreover, the project facilitated the formation of 6 Village Savings and Loans Associations (VSLAs) to promote financial inclusion and savings culture among beneficiaries. Through these associations, youth were able to pool resources, access small loans, and engage in income-generating activities, thereby enhancing their financial resilience and economic empowerment. This resulted in a significant percentage change in well-being, with beneficiaries reporting an average increase of 5% in their overall well-being since joining the program in 2022.

Lessons learnt

- Comprehensive identification and assessment processes are vital for successful vocational training programs.
- Collaborative efforts with community stakeholders are essential for program effectiveness.
- Psychosocial support services are crucial for addressing the holistic needs of vulnerable youth, particularly in slum settings.

Recommendations

- Strengthen recruitment and retention of skilled vocational instructors.
- Enhance partnerships for job placements, internships, and financial services.
- Prioritize ongoing support for vulnerable youth, including teenage mothers.
- Implement continuous monitoring and evaluation mechanisms.
- Intensify efforts to promote sustainability of Village Savings and Loans Associations (VSLAs).
- · Aim for sustainability and scalability in empowering vulnerable youth.

Project activities in a snapshot

Emergency support for evicted young people

UYDEL is indebted and appreciates the financial support that made it possible to provide of emergency relief to the (45) project beneficiaries and their families (181 family members) evicted from the Railway line in September 2023that were affected by the forced eviction from the in November 2023 in Banda, Nakawa Division. All families evicted were not compensated and were homeless spending sleepless nights outside around bonfires as some sought accommodation from the nearby neighborhoods but could not stay them for long as these neighbors also were either staying in one room or two room houses and yet they also had large families, while others resorted to sleeping in bars and sports betting places. Were provided with rent for three months, mattresses, blankets, sugar, t-shirts, soap, among other household items that supported them in the period of adversity and transition. The project beneficiaries that required Business capital to start small business elsewhere were also supported and for some rent was paid for their workplaces

A total of (45) project beneficiaries and (194) family members were reached with the additional emergency relief support provided by WISE/NEXT Foundation for the renewed hope and smiles we were able to see on the faces of these young people and their families as a result of this emergency relief support
